THE FASHIONS.

The Philadelphia Bulletin is highly pleased with the present fashions for ladies' dresses. We must not (it says) abuse fashion indiscriminately. When she takes counsel of taste we should commend. There are so many ugly and inconvenient freaks of the fickle goddess, and we are so much in the H. McVeigh, and James L. Chamberlain, late cohabit of laughing at her and her votaries partners, under the firm name of McVeigh & map in America—that we really ought to cree of May term, 1860, of the Circuit Court of $1,25 per volume. spare an article, now and then, to praise her when she gratifies the taste of the whole pretty. For young girls-not married women and middle-aged ladies-it is the pretti- mortgage, deed of trust, or otherwise, existing est and most tasteful thing we ever seen on their pretty heads. For all girls with passably regular features and tolerable complexions it is the very thing. It ought not, however, to be worn too much off the face, which | under the deed of trust executed by Addison & gives the wearer a bold look. The idea is to Howard, of the 50th of March, 1858, in the bill droop the hat and feather a little, so as not mentioned. And the said master is further reto lose sight of that modesty without which a woman, young or old, is leather and pru-

The nets for the hair, with the little tassels at the side, are very graceful and becoming for the same class of girls. To those just mains undisposed of. And, further, to ascertain coming out, and indeed to all who have a vouthful look, they add a charm of lightness & Howard, and which are secured or intended so and airiness such as we have seldom seen given by any head dress. Grace, with the hat | Howard, or by the deed of trust of 30th of March, and leather and net, may be the rule and not 1858, executed by E. B. Addison, Sr., and the the exception.

The mantillas are very becoming, and the subdued tone of the colors, the absence of glare and flaunting, the different shades of gray, the coolness and grace of the whole style, enable us to congratulate the ladies .-They have done that important thing this be by him fixed, present and prove their claims to summer—they have made a hit.

Conner.-The office of coroner is as ancient as that of sheriff. The name originated in the fact that this officer has principally to do with pleas of the Crown. It was the custom of the Anglo-Saxons to have several men of distinction chosen by the freeholders of each county, whose duty it should be to bring criminals of all kinds to trial, and also determine the value of fines, and forfeitures, and escheats accruing to the King. To do this he was empowered to summon an inquest or jury. After the Norman conquest the coroner's province was restricted to certifying to the "Aula Regis" his incuisitions concerning the offences falling under his jurisdiction. So, afterwards, upon the establishment of King's Bench and Commissions of Over and Terminer, the coroner became the certifier of offences to these courts. It was found, however, that extended, less and less reliance was to be placed on the reports of an officer elected by the people, whose interests and sympathies led him to omit minor offences and confine his inquisitions to crimes which called a court of criminal jurisdiction, by whose aguisition, judges were empowered to proceed to the trial of offenders. This was the origin of the grand jury. Thus the office of coroner, originally one of the most respectable and important, to hold which it was necessary to be of knightly degree, degenerated into one of very limited power and jurisdiction. The substitute furnished is a most excellent one, and being free from all the objections applying to the original, is likely to extend wherever the common law of England goes, and to last as long as that epitoma of the judicial wisdom of the freest race upon earth shall endure as the surest sefeguard of human rights.

THE DOOM OF THE WORLD .- What this change is to be we dare not even to conjectare, but we see in the heavens themselves some traces of destructive elements and some of broken planets, the descent of the metoric stones, upon our globe; the wheeling comets, welding their loose materials at the solar furnace, the volcanic eruptions in our own satellite, the appearance of new stars, and the disappearance of others, are all foreshadows of that impending convulsion to which the system of the world is doomed. Thus placed on a planet which is to be burned up, and under heavens that are too pass away-thus treading as it were on the cemeteries, and dwelling upon the mausoleums of former worlds, lee us learn the lesson of humility and wisdom; if we have not already been taught it in the school of revelation.
